THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The Success of Chicago in securing the World's Fair will be of great benefit to the West. Although St. Louis would have been nearer the difference would hardly have been worth mentioning.

For many years the central point of interesting features in the United States has always been much further East, and in a great measure isolated from the West. The Fair will draw representatives from all nations, and the globe trotter will flock upon our shores like a locust drive, moving here and there, seeking what novelties they may devour. Many will move further Westward to the scene of so many triumphs of agriculture, mining and rapid development of country, which 100 years ago was a barren plain, only visited by the scorching sun, the lean, shaggy coyote and the poor Indian.

Now is the time to toot the horn of the Great West; the seat of wealth and the future home of the all round farmer. The Old World has grown to manhood with a slow, steady tread, and changes have only been brought about by years of toil, wrangle and bloodshed, but America, the center of all rustling, has grown from an infant to a powerful and formidable nation right under the nose of the Old World, and our last triumph is the location of the World's Fair in America.

Even if it were located in New York it would be of considerable interest to us, but as it is, the difference is vastly in our favor. The founding of the Board of Trade in Nevada and the intention of the Board to advertise our State in the East is a step to the fore. Our mineral display at the Fair will be of considerable interest to men of Europe, who will combine business with pleasure if they come to America.

Sufficient time exists between now and 1892 to boom Nevada to the United States, and by the time the Fair is in progress we will be prepared to boom her to the entire world.

The Salt Lake Tribune has appeared in a new dress. In speaking at length of the discarded type the Tribune says editorially: "With the new era the old types of The Tribune are discarded. Like many a mortal they were worn out in the attrition of the battle for the right, and types, like men, count for little when they can no more be of service. But they were the best of stuff in their day. Many were the falsehoods that they throttled; many a doughty battle they waged; indeed, their life was but one long fight for a principle, and now that the fierce heat of the noontime is passed, what better could happen than that while the clouds in the West are breaking away, they should go into the calm?"

It has been discovered that counterfeit paper money is in circulation in this State. Recently the Sub-Treasurer at San Francisco, Cal., sent back to Postmaster J. A. Ball, of Belmont, a counterfeit $10 silver certificate which was paid into the money-order office here by some unknown person. The returned certificate is almost a fac simile of the legal paper, and no one but an expert could detect that this certificate is spurious.—Belmont Courier.

Work was begun at Portland the other day on the driving of piles for the foundation of the pivot pier for the bridge across the Willamette from the foot of Madison street. This will be the third bridge over the river there and will be 600 feet longer than either of the others.

The situation in Germany is peculiar as the government wants to mould the people and the people want to mould the government. This condition of things reminds us of a few of our political friends, with a slight change, viz: They want to mould the whole business.

A mob of Mormon missionaries in London were set upon by a mob and nearly wiped out.
